Mr. Lycert respectfully suggests to his friends that while much has been done to transmit family records, little care has been taken to preserve parental likenesses. He takes this method to inform his friends, and those desirous of perpetuating personal remembrances, that dagnerreotype likenesses can be inlaid on the inside covers of family bibles, presentation-books, or keepsakes, specimens of which can be seen at his bindery, or he can be addressed by letter, which will be promptly attended to.

"WASHINGTON SENTINEL." PROPOSE to publish in the city of Washing

NEL.

In doing so, it is proper I should make known the principles it will maintain, and the policy it will advocate.

It will support cordially and earnestly the principles of the Democratic party of the United States, it does not propose to be the organ of any Department of the Government, except in so far as an independent maintenance of the doctrines of that party may represent its opinions and express its party may represent its opinions and express its party may represent its opinions and express its views.

It will not be ambitious to commend itself to the people by a blind flattery of their rulers. It will seek public support by the bold avowal of the sentiments which are common to the genuine Democracy of the Union, and by the condemnation of all such as may conflict with them, from whatever quarter they may come. It will seek to be (and it will endeavor to deserve the title) the organ of the Democratic party of the United States.

The Sentinel will maintain, as a fundamental truth of that great party, that the States formed the truth of that great party, that the States formed the Union between them by the ratification of the Constitution as a compact; by which, also, they created the Federal Government, and delegated to it, the Federal Government, and delegated to it, as their common agent, the powers expressly specified in it, with an explicit reservation of all others to the States, or to their separate governments. The exercise of any powers beyond these thus delegated, is, therefore, an usurpation of the reserved authority of the States by the agent of their own creation.

The Sextinki will uphold and defend the Union monthly basis of the rights of the States—under upon the basis of the rights of the States-under the Constitution—and thus by sedulously guarding the latter, it will the more effectually strengthen and perpetuate the former.

With regard to the exercise of the powers of the With regard to the exercise of the powers of the Federal Government, the Sentinel will take as the principles of its action, that Congress shall exercise no power which has not been delegated by the Constitution, according to a strict and fair interpretation of its language and spirit; and that it shall not seek to attain indirectly an object through the exercise of constitutional power, for the direct attainment of which it has no delegation of power. In other words, all powers exercised must be clearly granted, and all granted powers must be used for no purpose, except such as is clearly intended by the Constitution.

In respect to the internal administration of the

In respect to the internal administration of the Government, the SENTINEL will sustain the settled policy of the Democratic party. It will labor to inculcate this cardinal doctrine of Democratic ininculcate this cardinal doctrine of Democratic in-ternal policy:—that this Government will best promote the freedom and prosperity of the people of the States, by being less ambitious to exercise power, and more anxious to preserve liberty; and by leaving to the individual States the manage-ment of all their domestic concerns—while it con-tents itself with guarding the confederacy from external violence, and directing the foreign policy of the country to the promotion of the common interests, and defence of the common rights, and honor of the States composing it.

honor of the States composing it.

The Sentinel will advocate such a progressive foreign policy as will suit itself to the exigencies and correspond with the expanding interests of the country. That policy should be energetic and decided; but should temper firmness with liberality and make its highest ends consist with the strictest principles of justice. The real interests of the country, upon each occasion demanding attention will be its guide in the course the Sentinel wil

The national policy of the world in this age is essentially aggressive. In the growing sense of weakness of some of the nations of the Old World, and the ambitious restlessness of others, a com-from abroad with our domestic concerns, will prompt us to avoid it in the affairs of other countries, inless by their foreign or colonial policy our peace should be threatened, our security endangered, or our interests invaded. For when the selfish interests of other nations prompt a foreign or colonial policy which infringes upon our rights, and places in the pathway of our commerce a dangerous and unfriendly rival, such a policy must be resisted by remonstrance, and, if need be, ky Our foreign policy should, indeed, be defensive;

but to be properly defensive, it must sometimes be apparently aggressive. Our administration should be visitent, watchful, and energetic. The world apparently aggressive. Our administration should be vigilant, watchful, and energetic. The world is full of important movements, commercial and political, deeply concerning American trade and American power. It is time we had an American foreign policy. We must have it. We cannot avoid it if we would. We have larger interests, and a greater stake in the world and its destiny, than every other people. We occupy the best portion of a continent, with no neighbors but a colony, and a worn-out, anarchical despotism. We are the only people whose own land, without colonial defendencies, is washed by the two great oceans of the world. Our agricultural productions are more varied and more essential to civilized life, and to human progress—our mineral and manufacturing resources more vast-our facilities and capacity fo resources more vast—our facilities and capacity for internal and foreign commerce more extended than those of any other people living under one government. A continent, to a great extent, unexplored and exhaustless in its yet hidden wealth, is at our feet. European trade seeks the great East through avenues which are at our doors, or must be made through our own limits. Europe, Asia Africa, and the isles of the sea, lying all around us, look to us as the rising power, through the agency of whose example, and ever widening and extending, though peaceful influences, the blessings of liberty, civilization, and religion, are designs of the control o tined to triumph over the barbarism and supersti-tion of the millions of the world. And shall such a people refuse to lay hold upon their destiny, and act upon the high mission to which it is called? A mission so full of hope, though so laden with responsibility, which, if properly directed, must make our confederacy the harbinger of peace to the world, as well as the peaceful arbiter of its

The SENTINEL will, therefore, advocate a and earnest foreign policy, such as the condition of the country demands; but it will advocate it under the flag of the country-nowhere else. Its foreign but what is right, and submit to nothing but what is right, and submit to nothing that is wrong. It must be iberal and magnanimous to the rights of others, and firm and immoveable in insisting on its own. It must, in fine, be true to its own interests, rights, and honor—it cannot then e false to those of other nations.

Such, then, is the chart by which we shall be guided. Independent and free, we shall endeavor to be honest and truthful. The true friends of democratic principles we shall cordially support and defend. Its enemies in the field or in ambush we shall oppose, and on all proper occasions denounce.

To our future brethren of the press we extend the hand of friendly greeting. The Sentinel is the rival of no press of its own party—the personal enemy of none of the other. The present Democratic Administration has our best wishes for its success in the establishment of the great principles upon which it came into power, and in its honest labors to attain such an end it will find the SENTINEL its friend and coadjutor. Extract from a letter of the publishers, D. Appleton for the District of Columbia.

Dear Sir: At the time we commenced stereotyping Benton's great work, we supposed we should be able to fill orders from our agents by the 1st of April, and accordingly promised the books at that time; and in order to keep this promise we have during the last four months used every exertion in our power, but now find that we shall require a larger number than can be printed from any ordinary set of plates, and we are consequently obliged to have them faced with copper, which will necessarily detain the work some two or three weeks, making the date of publication about the 20th of April. This delay, from a cause which we could not have anticipated, is a a cause which we could not have anticipated, is a disappointment which you cannot regret more than we do.

It is hoped the above explanation will be satisfactory to subscribers in regard to the short delay. I will have the work at the earliest possible moment, and will with all despatch proceed to do.

noment, and will with all despatch proceed to de liver it to them.

It is important I should know before the 5th of April what number of copies I will require for this District, and would request all who desire the work, who have not been waited on, to send me their names through the city post office, and they will be supplied at the earliest moment.

The present critical state of European affairs will render these publications unusually interesting during the year 1854. They will occupy a middle ground between the hastily-written news items, ground between the hastily-written news items, crude speculations, and flying rumors of the daily journal, and the ponderous tone of the future historian, written after the living interest and excitement of the great political events of the time shall have passed away.
